BU016 Bulle Oblong Label

Many Bulle clocks are found minus the brass label that normally adorns the front of the wooden base on tall movements. The label will normally be in French or English depending on the designated market. They are manufactured from brass and then etched and black filled.
The other type of label normally seen is the oval French type which is etched in reverse with the characters highlighted in black.
These reproduction labels are manufactured in the same way as the originals albeit using modern production techniques and are the same size and shape. If your clock is missing an oblong type label then after checking whether it is a French or British dial then a replacement label is now available.
