

Candlelit Night Clock with Glass Globe

A rare antique night light clock, the numerals on the glass globe backlit by a tea-light candle. The globe rotates over the course of 12 hours, with the pointer remaining static.

The 30-hour clock movement is wound by turning the brass drum below the globe.

The clock is original and in exceptionally good condition. The brass supporting pillar is mounted on a black painted wooden base with scalloped edges.

The movement is to be overhauled and guaranteed.
