Large oak Dial Clock, Camerer Cuss

A grand oak English dial clock originally made for use in a public space. Its one-piece imposing oak case appears as a separate bracket clock on a shelf bracket. The architectural top sits above a moulded cornice, and the four corners of the dial surround have applied engraved panels.

The 13-inch dial is repainted, and thus in perfect condition.

Eight-day chain fusee movement with rectangular plates.

The cast brass bezel is fitted with flat beveled glass.

Height: 91 cms (3 feet)
Width: 54cms
Depth: 20cms

Overhauled and guaranteed for 3 years.

The clock is photographed hanging beside a ‘standard’ size 12-inch drop dial English wall clock for comparison.
